

Radio Bird®

Either of these, the VOICE-CALL™ shown above, or the GATEBELL™ at left are options that some family gate owners may find unnecessary. Most visitors would call before coming. However, if you keep your gate closed during the daytime, the GATEBELL™ would provide you with an inexpensive "heads up" convenience. Like a doorbell, but any distance up to a mile or more and wireless. Not bad huh!

The VOICE or VO-CALL™ unit would generally be mounted on an arched post. The drive-up visitor would follow the instructions and open the VO-CALL™ door, then take the radio to their car, (it is tethered to a coiled cable). The opened door automatically powers up the radio and serves as a mini billboard. It advises the visitor to press "Call" to speak with the owner. Special visitors can also use their private access radio code if they have been given one. It can be voided if ever necessary.

Nothing like the RADIO BIRD™ products anywhere else in the world.
